Academic program

The academic program starts Monday, January 6th at 11.00, and ends Tuesday, January 7th at 15.30.

In the contributed sessions, the last scheduled presenter serves as session head. For each presentation, the presenter scheduled directly after is discussant, and for the last paper, the first presenter is discussant. We propose 20 minutes for the presenters, five minutes for the discussants and five minutes for general discussions.

Each presenter should e-mail their paper to the discussant, tentatively by December 16th, but coordinate the exact timing with your discussant

The academic program will take place at NMBU. Please bring your presentation on a memory stick so your presentation can be run from the computer in the room where the session you are part of takes place. Computers in the rooms are equipped with PowerPoint and Adobe Acrobat reader. For presentations with many mathematical expressions, we strongly advise you to have a version of your presentation in PDF format with embedded fonts to ensure that formulas display as you have intended.
